

TEAM-BASED PRIMARY CARE: Better Access & More Services

Bayo Crownson, MD, and Rebecca Beck, a board-certified family nurse practitioner, are working together in a team-based primary care model. This approach will allow them to expand access and increase services for Saltzer Health patients.

In a team-based approach, patients receive the same high-quality care. But this new model will improve opportunities for patient education, behavioral health, self-management support, and care coordination.

Working collaboratively, the providers have more ability to interact closely with patients, address problems and use data to help improve the quality of the patient's clinical visit.
